I. PURPOSE

The City of Rochester (City) requests proposals from qualified consultants to provide program design, monitoring and assessment support for the City of Rochester Home Electrification & Revitalization Opportunity (HERO) program. The HERO program funds the creation of sustainable, all-electric homes for disadvantaged city residents disproportionately burdened by the impacts of climate change and least able to adapt to these impacts. This program is being funded through an Environmental Justice Government-to-Government Program (EJG2G) grant from the United States Environmental Protection Agency (EPA).

II. GENERAL BACKGROUND AND INFORMATION

The HERO program will accomplish its goals through collaboration with multiple community-based groups to complete beneficial electrification and clean energy improvements which incorporate air-source heat pumps, high levels of insulation and air sealing, heat pump water heaters, electric appliances, rooftop solar where feasible, and electric vehicle (EV) charging points into houses rehabilitated through the City's existing whole-house rehabilitation programs. Through the HERO program, community education, engagement and outreach about home electrification and sustainability benefits will be conducted. The program will include monitoring of the energy cost savings and reduction in greenhouse gas emissions, as well as an evaluation of the health impact of residents who purchase the rehabilitated homes.

HERO implements strategies identified in the City's Climate Action Plan and Climate Change Resilience Plan, including community education and outreach on climate mitigation and adaptation, beneficial electrification, and adoption of alternative fuel vehicles. By renovating houses and installing all-electric heating and appliances, the City will advance its climate mitigation and resiliency objectives. As the air-source heat pumps will provide air-conditioning as well as heating, residents will be protected from heat stress and risk of serious illness or death due to extreme heat events. People from underserved communities and vulnerable populations, who have been disproportionately impacted by the impacts of climate change and health risks of natural gas use and may have had fewer opportunities to access available programs, will directly benefit from access to these properties.

Providing these healthy, sustainable homes to disadvantaged first-time low-income homebuyers and residents, most of whom reside in areas of the City that have been disproportionately affected by the impacts of climate change and suffer disproportionate rates of asthma and other respiratory diseases, will benefit these households through improved indoor air quality and the opportunity to build generational wealth through homeownership. These households will also benefit from lower utility costs resulting from on-site solar electricity generation (where feasible) and from lower heating/cooling costs resulting from use of air-source heat pumps combined with additional insulation. These homeowners will also have the ability to access charging for electric vehicles, further reducing energy costs as well as greenhouse gas emissions.

The project will improve health outcomes among residents of houses rehabilitated through HERO. Health results will include reduced risk of asthma and other respiratory diseases associated with natural gas heating and appliances and reduced incidence of heat- and cold-related stress.
