Maplewood Nature Center Public Meeting

Project Introduction:

The City of Rochester has committed to the development of an urban nature center at Maplewood Park in order to increase community-wide access to nature. In recognition of this commitment, the City of Rochester has dedicated an existing facility in the City's Historic Maplewood Park to be the site of the urban nature center.

The Maplewood Nature Center will include indoor exhibit and learning space, teaching gardens, a nature playground and much more. The center will help connect key stakeholders and providers of environmental and nature-based programming from across the community.
